

Giant Gippsland Earthworms and Burrowing Crayfish

Come and find out if these threatened species
might be living at your place,
and how you can help them survive!

South Gippsland and Latrobe Landcare Networks have funding for on-ground works to protect these threatened species.

If you think you have Giant Gippsland Earthworms or Warragul, Narracan or Strzlecki Burrowing Crayfish on your property and would like to protect them please contact us to express your interest.

South Gippsland Landcare contact Cassie Wright
cassie@sgln.net.au
0448 739 559

Latrobe Landcare Network contact John Crosby
johnc@wgcm.vic.gov.au
0429 803 631

You are invited to participate in a workshop and farm walk:

GUEST SPEAKER: Terrestrial invertebrate expert Dr Beverley Van Praagh

THE WORKSHOP

- Learn about the biology and habits of these cryptic animals
- Find out how to identify and manage earthworm habitat on your property

THE FARM WALK

- Standard revegetation techniques aren't always suitable for Giant Gippsland Earthworms as the growing trees reduce soil moisture. We'll visit two farms where a modified revegetation method was used 5 years ago and hear how it has worked!

Where: Poowong North Hall,
Corner of Timms and Allchins Rds, Poowong North

When: Wednesday 9th of October 2019, 10am – 1.30pm

RSVP's essential by Friday 4th October at <https://giantearthworms.eventbrite.com.au>

This project was funded with the support of the Victorian Government.

